

Welcome friend,

Veronica's Voice two-year residential program is for women who have survived lives of prostitution, trafficking, violence, addiction, and life on the streets. We offer housing, food, medical and dental needs, trauma informed therapy, education, and job training without charging the residents.

Many prostituted women have spent decades on the streets, or have been precariously housed, and have never experienced a home. A simple thing like having an address is a big deal. It means stability and security - for many, the first time in their lives to have such stability.

The most important thing that our residential community will provide is unconditional love in a non-judgmental environment. These are gifts in and of themselves that most prostituted women have never experienced in their lives. They more than likely have never been given food, shelter, or any basic needs that hasn't come at a cost to their dignity and self-worth. Healing begins the moment the women moving into our residential home realize that the only reason they have been invited is so that they can have the opportunity to heal, grow, become empowered and thrive.

"Love is more powerful than the forces that drive women/girls into prostitution."

~Becca Stevens

As a survivor, I appreciate how difficult it is to get out of "the life" of prostitution. If there had been a Veronica's Voice community when I was trying to get out, I would have been able to exit much sooner. It would have changed my life if I had a home where I belonged with a loving community of support and my basic human needs being met at no cost. This would have allowed me to focus on healing, job training, and work.

You are helping support an incredible gift. Words cannot express my gratitude for your part in making a way for women like me to find their way home! Thank you for supporting Veronica's Voice!

As our community grows,
